

Weekend Harvester: Harvest, Wash and Pack primarily Zucchini and Cucumbers and possibly other crops. Other field work like trellising tomatoes and cucumbers may be available.

About Little Wings Farm: We are a commercial farm growing approximately 10 acres of Certified Organic produce seasonally. We sell our produce to our Cropshare Program of 200 members, Restaurants, and Natural Food Stores. We believe in high quality food grown with consideration for the health of our soil, native insects and overall environment. We love working with a crew of positive minded, hard working people.

We approach farming with practical systems, mindful work, and efficient techniques that require improving on individual skills while also working cohesively in a team. We sharpen our knives and hoes every time we use them, we communicate with walkie talkies regularly, and we do most of our work on our feet, not on our knees. We are always in motion and move with intention to tackle each task quickly.

Also, for what it's worth, we do not use single-use plastic mulch on our farm.

Season/Hrs: This is approximately a 4 month position working on either Saturday and/or Sunday. Starting in July and ending in October. It is 4-8 hrs/week. It is important that the harvest gets done early in the day when the temperatures are cool outside.

Pay Rate: Starting at $17-$19/hr + DOE in addition to farm produce. Potential for mid-season raise once skills, communication and work ethic have excelled.

Benefits:

1. Paid leave of 1 hour per 40 hours worked
2. End of season completion bonus

Requirements:

1. At Least one year of work experience
2. Ability to work under a superior, to learn and adopt new techniques, and to receive constructive feedback
3. Have attention to detail and maintain high quality standards
4. Ability to work solo or with one other person
5. Ability to lift 40 lbs over and over and maintain stamina throughout the harvest
6. To have reliable transportation to our farm
7. Eager and able to learn quickly and improve upon your skills throughout the season.

The Farm Culture: We love working with our farm team to execute the day's tasks in a high paced, fun and energetic atmosphere transitioning very quickly from one task to the next. We give our employees goals to strive towards and we reward and appreciate them when they achieve those goals. We also don't shy away from conversations around what our cost of production is in each crop. Ultimately, the only way for us to continue growing food is to run a successful business, and that starts with our farm team!
